The Mexican dollar, which is somewhat roughly minted, appears to vary between 4164 and 4171 grs. 593 to 802 fine = 374.6 pare. The ruppe is 180 grs. 916 fine = 165 pare. A coin worth 21 rapeas would therefore by 9711 101,414 pure, or about I per cent worse than the Mexican dollar. The proposed relationship between the two coins may appear useless so long as the policy of the Indian Government neutralises it by placing a flotitious value on the supee; but may be worth consideration in view of a possible eventual return to a sliver level, when it would obtionaly be convenient if the entroney of our Eastern dependencies were on an interoungeable basis.
